The Soroti district Education and Sports department on Monday successfully organised a primary schools' athletics competitions at Soroti city sports ground, attracting enthusiastic participation from learners under the age of 12 and 14.

The vibrant co-curricular activity featured a variety of athletic disciplines that included long-jump, high-jump, 60m sprint, relays and discus for both boys and girls.

The one-day competition was geared at identifying athletes to represent Soroti district local government during the National Primary Schools and Para-games due on May 4-14 in Tororo.

Presiding over the competition Anthony Oyuru, the chairperson Education and health committee underscored the importance of nurturing young talent. He emphasized that co-curricular activities are a key part of government policy aimed at holistic education.
